Javers Group opens local office serving Syracuse, Albany

13 minutes ago by Eric Reinhardt

SYRACUSE - Javers Group, a Berwyn, Pa.-based provider of human-resource management and group-benefits services, has opened an office in Syracuse that will also serve clients in the Albany area.

Javers Group announced the opening on Tuesday. Its news release didn't provide the office address.

Ken Bottini, who most recently served as a sales executive for Albany-based Capital District Physicians' Health Plan (CDPHP), has been tapped to lead the new office.

In his previous role with CDPHP, Bottini was responsible for health plan sales to mid- and large-sized businesses in the Syracuse and Albany markets, according to the Javers news release.

Founded in 1999, Javers Group serves companies in sectors that include financial services, health care, technology, and manufacturing.
